

A FAT BOY

One sunny morning, Willy and his friends were playing in the playground. They were playing football. Sandy could kick the ball very well, but Willy was too fat to kick the ball. Everyone had a chance to kick the ball except Willy. He could not run fast enough to kick the ball. The children were playing happily but Willy played slowly and got tires easily.

The boys said to Willy, "Willy you play badly, we do not want you to play with us any more. You are too fat to play football, and you run slowly." Willy was very sad when he heard that his friends did not want him to play with them. He went home sadly and told his mother about his friends. His mother comforted him, "Don't be sad, you can play other games and you can find lots of friends to play with you."
